EXPENDITURE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental expenditures as a result of this recommended review. This review will be performed with existing agency resources and will have no impact on state expenditures.

Procurement statutes related to information technology are currently in various sections of Louisiana law making the management of these resources outdated and inefficient. Due to the changing of technology and the overlap in procurement law, a consolidation of these statutes has become necessary to appropriately manage IT contracts in an effective manner. The DOA anticipates a thorough review will be performed to determine how efficiencies can be created in the procurement statutes related to the Office of Information Technology (OIT), the Office of Telecommunications Management (OTM), the Office of Contractual Review (OCR) and the Office of State Purchasing (OSP).

REVENUE EXPLANATION

There is no anticipated direct material effect on governmental revenues as a result of this measure.
